That, in Virginia, the Society of Friends has long been held in the highest estimation, both by those in authority and by the citizens generally; - it having been admitted by them that Friends in opposing slavery, were actuated by religious motives. That the motives of Friends have been respected and their appeals listened to with attention, and with effect; in evidence of which, we are referred to the Virginia Convention, and to the tone of feeling there manifested, so favorable to the abolition cause, in reference to which, the writer says, This was a good work - what did hinder it?
