Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Where Hudson's Voyage Ended, an Inquiry: Cohoes, and the Origin of the Name In this year of our Lord 1909, we hear much about the Hudson-Fulton Celebration from writers who fill us with historic lore concerning the lower reaches of the Hudson, Manhattan Island, New Amsterdam and the building by Holland and the reception in New York of a replica of De Halve Maene; and back in our earliest school histories we learned about the entrance into New York harbor, three hundred years ago, of the wonderful little yacht commanded by Henry Hudson, and his memorable cruise up the River of the Mountains, and later we have enjoyed Clerk Juet's diary of every morning whether it were faire weather or mystie, untill the sunne arose. And when he sayled twelve leagues, and had five fathoms, with the river full of fish, our ecstasy was unbounded. But, At five of the clocke in the afternoone, When the wind came to south southwest. So wee made a boord or two, and anchored. we began to...
